IN A TERRIBLE FLIGHT.

A Coney Island Bathing Discoverer Her Costume Washing off.

The women under the parasols that day on Coney Island soon discovered that something was wrong. As Mrs. B. took a sun up and down—she was not an expert swimmer—it was noticed that surrounding her the water took on varied colors.

"The dye is coming out of that gown," said one.

"I should say so," screamed another; "why, she'll dye us all."

"Never say dye," said a third; "rather will she the multitudinous seas incarnadine." But there she stopped, for one of the red splashes landed on her white suit, and it was seen that a figure had come off intact.

"Why, Mrs. Billings," some one cried; "those patterns were just stuck on!"

Here some one caught hold of the dress. It turned a soft mass in her hand.

"Oh, heavens!" yelled Mrs. B. "It's washing off!"

"Squat down in the water!" screamed one.

"Fetch an umbrella!"

"Bring a barrel!"

"Who's drowning?" sung out Duncan De Witt De Wolf, the swell man of the party, as he dashed in among them.

"You can't imagine what an excitement there was. Every one on shore leveled their glasses, and every one in the water swam up. There was Billings all but melting into pulp. De Witt De Wolf ran up to the bath-houses and got one of the old blue jeans things they rent for 25 cents to the men, and came back with it, and poor Mrs. Billings got into it and scuttled out of the water as soon as she could. Gobs of that Japanese dress were washed ashore, and most every one had a little red and green worsted ball that came off the scallops to keep as a souvenir of the event. The Japanese stuff was made of paper, it seems, and began to resolve itself, the minute it was wet, into a pulp it was originally composed of. It was a narrow escape for Mrs. Billings.

A Singular Adventure.

The W. P. Upham, who is at the head of the Upham Manufacturing Company, which lost $800,000 by the great fire at Marshfield, Wis., was the hero of a singular adventure when a young man. He was a member of a Wisconsin regiment which participated in the first battle of Bull Run, and was thought to have been killed. His comrades saw him fall and none of them made any doubt of his death. Being the first victim of the strife in his own neighborhood there was great public mourning for him. A memorial service was held, in which thousands of people participated, and many eloquent eulogies were passed upon him.

Six months later Upham appeared in Washington with a party of exchanged prisoners. He had been desperately wounded and taken prisoner, but the Confederates had attended to his wants, and when the exchange took place he was sent home. When in Washington he was taken to the White House by Judge Doolittle, then a Senator, and introduced to President Lincoln as a soldier who had come back from the grave. As Upham was on the record as dead, Mr. Lincoln ordered a correct entry to be made, and then gave the boy an honorable discharge from the service. When he reached his home in Racine he was the lion of the hour, and the people who had participated in the memorial meeting in his honor got up a jubilee which was hardly less numerously attended. Later on the struggle the fortunes of individuals were not so closely watched.—Chicago Herald.

That Tired Feeling

Afflicts nearly every one in the spring. The system having become accustomed to the bracing air of winter, is weakened by the warm days of the changing season, and readily yields to attacks of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It tones and builds up every part of the body, and also expels all impurities from the blood. Try it this season.
